Meet the people of Hillcrest. These are the people who worked together with honor, truth, valor, and wisdom; the people who put school honor above personal gain or prestige; the people who realized that to learn the truth is just as important as learning facts; the students who, with that extra inner strength or valor, made it through another year of homework, classroom duties, and kept up with the changing world. These are the teachers who, in spite of a crowded schedule, were still willing to stop and share just a little time with a student.

Truth, honor, valor, and wisdom; these are the traits of the students and teachers of Hillcrest, the traits that made them more than just students and teachers of another public school.

Students had the opportunity to meet other students by participating in the many activities that Hillcrest offered during the year. These activities were planned to meet the students' extra-curricular and curricular needs with competitive sports, active clubs, and interesting classes. Under the leadership of Curt Lemmon, student body president, the school was able to enrich the students' experience and outlook on problems and philosophies in a space-age world.

For the first time, a Buzz Day assembly with the theme "Getting to Know You" took place the first week of school to welcome the new students and get them into the swing of things.

Homecoming came late in September with the theme "The Enchanted Forest." The event was highlighted with the crowning of poised Debbie Sweet as the 1969-70 Regalia Queen.

An enthusiastic and zealous cast made the musical "The King and I" a night to remember for all who attended.

Christmas time brought out the spirit of giving as Hillcrest students overflowed Christmas baskets, thoughtful of those who would not have a plentiful Christmas.

Later, at the Easter season, invalids and shut-ins were given Easter lilies.

Leading the students in their enthusiasm at various games and other activities were the spirited 1969-70 cheerleaders aided by the highstepping Highlander Drum and Bugle Corp. To add to interest, the snappy marching band and the choir performed many times throughout the year.

Over 100 different courses offered to Hillcrest students helped to prepare them for the future in college or skilled fields.

With the students' knowledge of their basic requirements as a guideline, they branched out into their choice of electives, such as art, music, journalism, speech, drama, and vocational training to train for job and business skills to carry into a space-age world.

A well-trained faculty of 70 guided the students into the fields of their choice. Sixty-seven percent of Hillcrest's administrative staff held at least a master's degree. A ratio of one faculty member per twenty students was held. Beginning teachers brought vigorous new ideas to balance the experienced staff.

New choir robes added to the attraction of the choir as they sang from Bach to modern-day songs.

Board of Education

Promotes Future Plans for Educational Growth

Elected by the community and working for the students, teachers, and parents of the greater Springfield area, the Board of Education promoted educational welfare for pupils in the Springfield Public Schools.

In planning for the various levels of education, the Board took in consideration such things as new industry, mobility of local population, and the rate of increase in over-all student population. As the Board became aware of the tremendous growth of the city, it planned a facile educational program to determine the future needs of the students.

In recognition of some of the needs this year, the citizens of Springfield voted approval of a three-million dollar bond authorization which provided for several major projects to be available by the fall of 1970.

One of these major projects will be the addition of 12 classrooms and two girls' physical fitness rooms at Hillcrest High School. To be benefited through the Board's planning will be Parkview and Glendale High Schools as well as the Vocational-Technical School, Pleasant View and South Kickapoo Junior High Schools. Additional elementary classrooms are to be added and additional sites for future uses to be selected.

The job of providing facilities, qualified teachers, and a challenging educational program requires a great deal of time on the part of each member. Many extra hours are spent formulating plans and decisions. Over 25,000 Springfield students reap the reward of the educational enrichment.

Challenge of Learning

Dr. Willard J. Graff

Superintendent of Schools

As superintendent of schools, Dr. Willard J. Graff continued to emphasize the need for quality education, effective learning, and the motivation of youth to pursue excellence in education.

Dr. Graff provided leadership for the 26,000 students in the fifty-seven schools and advised the Board of Education on matters of school policy and administration.

Under Dr. Graff's leadership, Springfield has the lowest pupil-teacher ratio it has ever had. Technical training has been provided for students and adults.

Besides performing the many duties of his demanding job, Dr. Graff enjoyed personal contacts with the students.

In an assembly speech he mentioned some of his basic concerns: "Emphasizing self-respect and the dignity of each individual; developing self-reliance and initiative; and achieving proper balance between individualism and conformity."

Dr. Graff urged the young to perceive and accept the concept that "Respect for constituted authority and the law is a requisite of human liberty and that the individual's well-being is dependent upon the common welfare."

ADMINISTRATIVE BOARD ... Front Row: Dr. A. M. Alexander, assistant superintendent for secondary education; Dr. J. E. Kuklenski, deputy superintendent for instruction; Dr. Willard J. Graff, superintendent of schools; Mr. Louis Bruton, president of Springfield Education Association; Dr. Roy F. Litle, assistant superintendent for elementary education; David W. Berryman, director of Vocational, Technical and Industrial Education. Second Row: Mr. Garth Yarnall, director of Research—Federal Legislation; Dr. Howard J. Lowe, director of curriculum development; Mr. Joe Grant, director of building services; Mr. Larry Folkins, director of personnel services; Mr. Kenneth W. Kraft, director of business services; Mr. John Sweeney, director of pupil services, and Dr. Wanda Gray, coordinator for elementary instruction.

Leaders Set Program

Educators Recognize Needs of Youth

Dr. Joe Kuklenski, deputy superintendent for instruction, was responsible for directing and coordinating the educational program under the general direction of Superintendent Graff and in accordance with the Board of Education policy. Some of his responsibilities included supervising long and short-range planning of the educational program, compiling reports for the Board of Education and the public, and evaluating the progress of the schools.

Dr. Kuklenski will assume the position of Superintendent of School District R-12 on August 1, 1970.

Dr. A. M. Alexander, assistant superintendent for secondary education was responsible for the administration and general supervision for the secondary school program. In November, Dr. Alexander was a participant in the Invitational Educational Seminar Tour to study Soviet Education and compare it with non-Soviet education in Europe and America.

One of his basic aims for the secondary schools was that we "should hold as many of the million dropouts as possible and provide all students with maximum help for living a life and for earning a living."

New Program for Era

P.T.A. Emphasizes Parent-Family Life

The Hillcrest Parent-Teacher Association centered its interest on the topic of "Parent and Family Life" and programs were geared towards an understanding of the problems arising from a complex society. Parents, teachers, and students studied together to understand the demands of the space-age times. Programs included speakers Dr. Willard J. Graff, superintendent of schools, Dr. Joe Kuklenski, deputy superintendent, and Mr. William Gist, Hillcrest principal.

P.T.A. EXECUTIVE OFFICERS ... Debbie McClung and Linda McGinnis discuss class assignments with the P.T.A. officers: Mrs. Dan Fortner, historian; Mrs. C. W. Kirkey, Jr., first vice-president; Miss Martha Ann Wells, second vice-president; Mrs. Floyd Gregory, president; Mrs. Clifford Adams, Sr.; secretary, and Mrs. Samuel Miller, treasurer.

Administrators Express

Faith in Individuals

Hillcrest in twelve years has grown to an enrollment of 1407 students, and a staff of 70 certificated and 36 non-certificated personnel with Mr. William Gist as its principal.

The philosophy of Mr. Gist and staff is entrenched in these basic concepts: "We believe in the dignity and uniqueness of the individual.

"We believe that the personnel of the school is responsible for creating and maintaining a professional attitude, mutual respect, concern for others, an equal opportunity for each student, and a faith in students to perpetuate and enrich our democratic way of life.

"We believe that the school must assume the primary responsibility for academic training, and must share with the family, church, and all other constructive community agencies in the development of wholesome attitudes, moral, spiritual, ethical, and aesthetic values."

Mr. Neal Grubaugh, assistant principal, believed that he should try to help every young person he could in the short time he has to learn that attitude and interest as well as the ability to learn are vital to the young person's success.

Guidance Staff Seeks

To Assist Students

Issuing work permits, scheduling students, advising students in selecting colleges, applying for scholarships, or looking for job opportunities were just a few of the counselors' tasks as they worked together with the administrative assistants assisting each class throughout the four-year period.

"The purpose of counseling is to help students to understand themselves better, to become well-adjusted to their environment, to be helpful citizens and happy individuals," stated Mrs. Lois Kirkman, junior counselor, regarding the role of the counselors.

Miss Martha Ann Wells and Mr. Joe Moffitt, administrative assistants, were always ready to help students with their problems. An important responsibility of their position is to formulate and help administer school policy, working closely with the principal.

Language Arts

Class Methods Give Variety to English

Through a variety of class instruction in the language arts program, students learned to express themselves more effectively in speech and in writing.

The required subjects English I, II, and III, dealt with the study of grammar and usage, vocabulary development, oral interpretation, and creative writing. English III emphasized American literature and the ideals of American democracy.

Included for the first time in the study of literature was a unit on "Contributions of the Negro to the American Heritage."

The elective courses, word study, English IVL, English IVC, speech, dramatics, and Journalism I, II, helped students to develop a deeper appreciation of literature; to master techniques of composition; to develop poise and self-confidence; and to become discriminating consumers of mass media.

Social Studies

New Outlook Gained In Use of Films, Records

Man's walk on the moon provided a dramatic close for the '60's, but it also ushered in the beginning of a whole new outlook in the study of the social sciences.

Utilizing strips, films, records, and research materials, students gained an increasing understanding and appreciation of their country as they understood the changes in the way of living caused by modern technology.

American problems combined government and economics as emphasis was placed upon the responsibilities of citizenship. Students received a practical working knowledge of modern economics. An intensive study of world geography provided a study of geographical facts and relationships with American heritage.

Human behavior and study of groups and institutions were emphasized in the psychology and sociology classes.

Science

Projects Encourage Research On Man's Total Environment

Science was given an added impetus for study when the astronauts explored the environs of the moon.

In carrying out further study of man's environment, Biology I students studied as their main objective the inter-relationship of man with his total environment, using the microscope and films in their study.

One of the class projects in chemistry was working with salt in a unit on qualitative analysis finding out what elements are included in it. Chemistry is desirable for those students planning a career in science.

Investigating a theory of how much radiation will reach a certain object from a heat source was one of the experiments conducted in earth science. Others included working out a three-dimensional model of a temperature field and studying earthquakes, receiving data from Washington on the major quakes.

In physics, emphasis was placed on individual problems and research. It dealt with heat, sound, current circuits, and electronics.

Mathematics Inspires Creative Thinking

Mathematics plays an integral part in all phases of living. The housewife figures out the measurements in a recipe for some dish, and complicated mathematical computers aid the astronauts to explore the surface of the moon.

To strengthen the student's mathematical background, extensive work in Mathematics I and II was done with real number system. Functional applications of arithmetic, algebra, geometry, and trigonometry were taught in relation to the needs of everyday life. This course is valuable to the student who plans to go into a trade or other occupation at the end of his high school career.

Graphical representation and deductive reasoning were stressed in Algebra I, while in Algebra II, structure of the real and complex number system, deductive reasoning, and the function concept were emphasized.

In geometry the student experienced the stimulation and satisfaction that comes from clear and creative thinking. Practical problems that utilize the concepts and facts of geometry were stressed.

Polynomial, exponential, logarithmic, and trigonometric functions and their properties and graphs were discussed in mathematical analysis and trigonometry.

Business Education

Business-minded Learn Variety of Office Skills

To meet the needs of students interested in a business career, nine courses were offered to complete the variety of choices.

Everyday problems as in handling personal finances, investments, wills, savings, and contracts were studied in basic business and business law. Interest in the area of selling or purchasing was satisfied in salesmanship.

To enable bookkeeping students an opportunity to achieve ultimate satisfaction in their work, each one was allowed to progress at his own rate of speed and comprehension. In accomplishing the goals, students got practical experience in handling business papers through the use of practice sets. They learned to use adding machines, calculating and posting machines.

Courses in shorthand, typing, clerical practice, secretarial practice, and bookkeeping furthered the students' abilities to present themselves in the work market.

Secretarial practice, a two-hour vocational course, included work in English mechanics, operation of spirit duplicator, mimeograph, calculators, adding machines, stenorettes and stenotrainers.

Journalism

New Ideas Challenge Students in Writing

In striving to recognize and utilize different styles of writing as well as the characteristics of good writing techniques, students in Journalism I and II gained new insights into the areas of modern communication. New ideas and old ideas were expressed in new ways. Better understandings of groups and their goals and an alertness to news were achieved.

Journalism I provided training in fundamentals of newspaper and yearbook publication. Journalism II was a two-hour laboratory class designed to publish the Hillcrest Herald and the Highlighter. Students were encouraged to improve their ability to be discriminating consumers of mass media.

In publishing twenty-seven editions of the Hillcrest Herald and the Highlighter, students learned the practical aspects of newspaper work, such as rewriting, copy editing, headline writing, advertising, and photography.

Preparing school news broadcasts and presenting them over the public address system gave the experience of writing and announcing as found in radio programming.

Speech, Dramatics

Oral Arts, Skills Aid In Tourneys, Musical

"Whistle a happy tune . . ."

Many sounds of cheerful whistling echoed down the halls from the auditorium during the month of November as drama students helped to prepare for the performance of "The King and I." From the art of make-up to the skill of planning shows for public performances, the development of personal qualities and poise gave an air of self-confidence to students taking dramatics, fundamentals of speech, and public speaking.

Fundamentals of speech and public speaking students participated in the neophyte tournaments at Parkview and Glendale High Schools. They also sponsored the largest speech and debate tournament ever held at Hillcrest.

Dramatics was designed for the effectiveness of the individual as it used subject matter pertaining to different aspects of the theater. The students were also responsible for most of the assemblies and other kinds of entertainment during the school year.

Foreign Languages

Study Finds Cultures Of Countries Exciting

Appreciation of Latin was developed as Latin I and II students read selected passages from Latin literature which showed contributions of Rome and Greece to American art, literature, and government.

In French I and II, the students got an understanding of the structure of the language. Selections of French literature were read with emphasis placed on the phases of French culture that have special meanings for Americans. Singing carols in French in the hall was a special treat just before the Christmas vacation.

As Spanish I and II students studied the conversations and culture of Spain from the newly adopted textbooks, they found that Spanish people are an exciting, gay, and colorful people. Their studies showed that Spanish is spoken in 26 countries—more than any other language.

Fine Arts

Students Display Talents In Fine Arts Program

The vocal and instrumental departments combined to give Hillcrest a background of varied music.

There was stirring music in the air as the 65 members of the marching band performed at the football games and parades. Classroom training in fine orchestral music was shown in concerts and the musical, "The King and I" by Rodgers and Hammerstein.

Sight-reading, harmony, and part singing were emphasized in Chorus I, II, and III. The Choir advanced in choral training and participated in public performances singing music of top quality, some of which was of difficulty usually done only by college groups. Sixty-five volumes dealing with the contributions of the Negro to the American heritage were included in the library which contained over 11,000 books. From this number, an over-all average of 514 books were checked out daily, which totaled about 11,500 books during the school year.

Individual attainments were emphasized in art classes as work was done in sculpturing, block printing, collages, watercolor painting, acrylic painting, lithography, and lettering.

Vocational Home Economics

Girls Write Recipes; Get Practical Training

Gaining knowledge in functional experiences were high points in the lives of the girls taking home economics.

Comprising a recipe booklet to include commodity foods was one of the food projects of Home Economics II. This course stressed foods, meal planning, food purchases, preparation and serving of foods, and nutrition of foods. Home Economics I, which covers six units covering all phases of home economics, precedes Home Economics II.

"Sewing is their game; perfection is their aim" could be said of the girls in Home Economics III, who are interested in clothes. Style, color, design, and tailoring were included in this area of the department.

Girls in Food Service received in-service training by working in the cafeteria under the supervision of the cooks. Girls received practical experience in the Child Care class by observing and working with small children in a classroom situation.

Family relations, economics of the household, and finances of a family were studied in the one-semester course, Family Living.

Vocational Training

School Meets Needs Of Changing Vocations

To prepare young people to face a world of changing demands in vocational careers, the Vocational-Technical-Industrial School set up a schedule of fifteen different courses to meet these needs.

Approximately 118 Hillcrest students were among the boys and girls from area high schools who participated in the program.

Students were transported to and from their respective schools by bus. They received half-day training in a variety of occupational areas, such as electronics, metal fabrication, electronic data processing, printing, refrigeration, and air conditioning, television, and the combined training of several occupations, multi-occupation.

Graduates were assisted in obtaining employment in the area in which they were trained.

In addition to the day courses, the Vocational-Technical School provided training in an adult program serving the community and the southwest area.

Students Explore Vocational Careers

Industrial Arts classes trained students in vocational fields while Cooperative Occupational Education offered seniors on-the-job training.

In drafting, emphasis was placed on the development of manual dexterity in the handling of all drafting tools.

Metalwork students received instruction in sheet, art, bench, machine, and hot metal as students of electricity studied the fields of magnetism, and the service and repair of small electrical appliances.

Basic skills were acquired as students in woodwork learned the sources and characteristics of common woods as well as wood products. Planning and developing projects, shop safety, and shop organization were stressed.

Through the Cooperative Occupational Education program, students obtained additional training and work experience on jobs outside of school. They were required to work for at least 15 hours a week to earn two units of credit a year. Students enrolled in C.O.E. also met in daily classes for instruction related to the types of occupations in which they were engaged.

Physical Education, Health

Fitness Program Promotes Health

A program of vitality, endurance, and appreciation of sports was the aim of the Physical Education and Health Department.

Girls in blue romper-style suits and boys in white T-shirts and trunks, played team sports and worked with tumbling, gymnastics, and rhythmic activities. Attention was given to developing good posture and specific motor skills as an all-round better physical fitness. Health instruction was included in the program.

A Personal and Community Health class was alternated with physical education in the eleventh grade. This course included such topics as air and water pollution, health careers, safety, and survival in case of emergency.

Driver Education

Drivers Learn Value Of Safety, First Aid

Driver Education was a course required of all sophomores to develop proper attitudes and teach the responsibilities of driving.

Classes met on alternate days throughout the year for classroom, drivo-trainer, and behind-the-wheel instruction.

In the classroom, proper techniques were taught along with the information needed for today's driving situation including a standard first aid course, the care of a car, financing, and insurance. Also 15 hours of credit were required in the units where the correct reaction was taught for certain driving situations.

The actual driving phase of the program was elective. Offered was actual manipulation of the car in traffic, one-way streets, intersections, interstate and open highway driving, and parallel parking.

Able Assistants

Secretaries Needed To Keep Statistics

Student assistants were invaluable as far as the secretarial staff and librarians were concerned.

Office assistants aided in answering telephones, delivered messages, gathered attendance slips, and worked in areas where they were needed. The librarians helped to process books and magazines. They assisted many students in finding research materials for term papers.

The secretarial staff each day went about its busy schedule of keeping school records accurately, recording grades, issuing transcripts, and helping the faculty with their needs.

Custodians, Cooks, Nurse

Hillcrest Workers Operate Efficiently

Many groups of people were involved in keeping Hillcrest run smoothly and efficiently during the school year.

The custodial staff of seven men kept the building safe and clean for the students. These men were responsible for the care of the building, grounds, and equipment doing all minor repairs. The custodians put in 280 hours per week, not counting performances like cleaning up after basketball games, school plays, and other activities.

In one month nineteen cooks prepared 15,000 plate lunches, 2400 sandwiches; sold 20,160 cartons of milk, and 24,120 candy bars.

The school nurse, Mrs. Martha Sutherlin, watched over the health of the students. In the two days a week, she checked immunization charts, took care of minor ills, and counseled on health problems.

Cabinet Encourages Student Involvement

In the Inaugural Assembly, Curt Lemmon was sworn in as president of the student body; Mike Fortner, vice-president; Diana Gann, secretary; and the following commissioners: Tricia Wagner, art; Kira Taylor, assemblies; Linda Beutler, finance; Lynn Horst, elections; and Alvin Blackard, halls and grounds; Mrs. Rebecca Bell, sponsor.

Immediately, Cabinet members became involved in the Regalia activities, "Hello-Day" assembly, voter registration, and patriotic assembly. The Cabinet was in charge of transportation for the state convention at Central High School.

The Cabinet decorated the halls for Christmas assembly. One of the highlights of its activities was hosting the Intra-City party.

Working with the Cabinet, the 58 members of the Student Council successfully carried out the Halloween project of "Treats for the Tots" and the Christmas Activity of giving toys and clothing to needy families. It helped to compile the "Buzzer," the school directory.

Serving as speaker and assistant speaker were Mike Fortner and Tim Davis. Other officers were Vickie Sturgell, secretary; Diana Bernet, chaplain, and Brad Harris, parliamentarian.

Skit Stresses Safety

Council Carries Out Safety Program

To insure safety on the parking lots, the Safety Council carried out a program of vehicle registration and issued parking permits to faculty members and students.

Again to emphasize the necessity for safety, the Council presented a Safety Council assembly with the assistance of Mr. C. J. Tindle and Mr. Ira Copeland of the Springfield Traffic Department who enacted a skit written by members of the journalism department.

In December, Tim Davis, Mike Fortner, Pam Eagleburger, and Sara Reed attended the tenth annual Missouri Youth Traffic Safety Conference in Jefferson City. Elected officers were Tim Davis, president; Mike Fortner, vice-president; Pam Eagleburger, secretary; Mary Bush, treasurer; and Mr. Beryl Bradley, sponsor.

Key Club

Ribbon Vendors Show Spirited Initiative

Again the enthusiastic cry of "Buy a ribbon" echoed in the halls as anxious Key Clubbers raised money to help finance other clubs and to promote school spirit.

The initiative of the Key Club fellows could be felt in many of the activities of the school. They provided the antique cars for the Regalia Court. Other contributions to the school included working as time keepers at the speech and debate tournament, assisting faculty during American Education Week, and presenting the school with a set of walkie talkies. They sponsored College Career Day and Teacher Appreciation Day.

They attended the Missouri-Arkansas Regional where the goals of Key Club were reemphasized: to develop moral values on the part of its members and to understand the ideas of Kiwanis International, the sponsoring organization.

Key Club members were chosen on the basis of scholastic ability, personality, and community citizenship.

Highlander Drum and Bugle Corps

Dances, Parades Show Spirit of Highlanders

Aching muscles and blistered feet were the marks of a true Highlander girl as newly elected juniors learned the highstepping techniques that the seniors had mastered.

As the year progressed, the corps promoted school spirit through several activities. They performed at football games, ushered at school activities, were guides for American Education Week events, and marched in civic parades.

Dressed in their authentic Stewart plaid, the Highlanders danced the traditional "Highland Fling" and "Festival" late in February during intermission at the Neosho basketball game.

Girls Aim for Friendship

Achievement Goals Of Service Clubs

"To work together in friendship and loyalty . . . to steer our ship of life to the bright stars of Hope and Faith . . . to set full sail through channels of achievement which lead us to the port of success," are excerpts from the Anchor Club's creed.

With this creed in mind, members of the Anchor Club worked together in knitting bandages for lepers and provided Christmas treats for three elderly persons. A representative from a local beauty salon gave demonstrations on personal grooming.

Miss Martha Ann Wells was the sponsor with other officers as follows: Becky Thornton, president; Cheryl McClurg, vice-president; Janet McCurdy, secretary; and Vicki Gardner, treasurer.

Representatives from the Tri-Hi-Y Club gained a clearer knowledge of the state government as they participated in the model state government project at Jefferson City in April.

Another activity of the club included giving a Christmas basket to a needy family. Pizza parties and playing volleyball were among the social activities of the club.

Officers were Debra McGinnis, president; LaVada Booker, vice-president; Judy Burkhardt, secretary; Doretta Mullican, treasurer; and Mrs. Susan Foltz, sponsor.

'Why Be a Teacher?'

Clubs Experience Career Projects

Future Teachers of America Club members interested in teaching as a career heard a panel of teachers discuss "Why Be A Teacher?" The F.T.A. group took a significant part in American Education week. Representatives participated in the state conference meeting at Columbia. A St. Valentine's program was presented at the Springfield Regional Diagnostic Clinic.

Participation in the national observance of Future Farmers of America week in February enabled the boys to display their programs of work. A judging team in dairy cattle attended American Royal in Kansas City.

The Future Business Leaders of America assisted in Open House. They helped to organize and print the Parent Teacher Association Council Bulletin. They were involved in the district convention. The F.B.L.A. sought to improve and establish standards for entrance into store and office occupations.

The 51 members of the Future Homemakers of America prepared 100 boxes for Grand Acres Nursing Home. They helped parents plan and tour a place for educational recreational activity.

Clubs Offer Careers

Leadership; Sports Part of Training

Cooperative Occupational Education Club provided leadership training and opportunity for developing social personal traits for its 35 members.

Led by David Hall and Murray Myers, C.O.E. joined the three public high schools in an Employer Appreciation banquet. It was represented at the state leadership conference at Warrensburg. It also donated a Christmas basket. An intra-city club party, spring picnic, and Halloween party were included in their many activities.

The Physical Education Career Club sponsored intramurals, Sports Day, and other activities such as gymnastics, basketball, bowling, and volleyball.

The 50 members led by Lynn Horst and Merry Gunnett were given the opportunity to develop leadership and interest in physical education as a career.

A.F.S. Trades Ideas With Exchange Student

Fifty members composed the American Field Service International Club, led by Donna Wimberley, Sandy Murphy, and Sara Reed. Springfield's foreign exchange students met and traded information dealing with their countries at a chili supper picnic and later attended a party at Parkview.

Projects sponsored by the H.H.S. club were the purchase of an activity ticket and a yearbook for Elsa del Carmen Colombo, exchange student from Argentina. A.F.S. helped with the foreign exchange students' adjustment and encouraged better relations between the United States and those countries represented by the exchange students.

Foreign Languages

Clubs Help Advance Cultural Awareness

The goals of the French, Spanish, and Latin Clubs were to further develop an appreciation of our cultural heritage; to learn more about the culture of the people and to enrich the curriculum.

The Spanish Club, La Sociedad de la Rosa Blanca, began the year with a celebration of Columbus Day Fiesta. As its Christmas project, the members made stockings and sang carols for the children's ward at the hospital. To observe Pan American Day, a White Rose banquet was held. The eighth grade Spanish students in the community schools were entertained. Community service projects were started.

Thirty-two members of the Latin Club donated a Christmas basket. Representatives attended the J.C.L. Convention in Columbia. They celebrated Latin Week to commemorate the founding of Rome, April 21, 75 B.C.

Under the leadership of officers Mary Bush, president; Debbie Sweet, vice-president; Sandy Perusse, secretary-treasurer; Grady Affolter, social chairman; and Mrs. Susan Foltz, sponsor, the French Club, Le Circle Francais, at Christmastime, sang French carols in the halls. Films dealing with French people, customs, and towns were shown.

Art Club, Quill and Scroll

Clubs Accent Work In Art, Writing

The Daring Daubers, led by Lynn Williams, fostered, expanded, and perpetuated a lively interest in art and helped others enjoy and understand art.

The 22 members traveled to Kansas City and visited the Nelson Art Gallery, Truman Library, and Kansas City Art Institute. At the Springfield Art museum, the group viewed the exhibits by Adolph Dehn and Watercolor U.S.A.

The Art Club entered exhibits in the Student Art Exhibit and the Hillcrest art show.

Activities of Quill and Scroll, an honorary society for high school journalists, came to a climax in the annual Quill and Scroll banquet sponsored by the four chapters of the four public schools. At this banquet, awards for journalistic excellence were presented and staffs for following year were announced. Officers were Sherry Gunnett, president; Ethel Freeman, secretary-treasurer, and Andy McMillen, program chairman.

One of the interesting programs which the Science Club enjoyed was the lecture by Dr. Norbert J. Kreidl, internationally famous glass scientist and professor at the University of Missouri at Rolla. He featured the most recent technological advances in glass.

Investigations of all of the avenues of science were made through field trips and reviews of recent periodicals. Vocational interests were also explored. Officers were Fred Drake, president; Steve Grant, vice-president; Susan Breier, secretary-treasurer; Joyce Reynolds and Janice Corbin, program chairmen; Mr. Frank Wann and Mr. Heaton Haynes, sponsors.

The thirteen members of the Math Club concerned themselves in the study of the slide rule and study of careers involving mathematics.

Thespians, Forensic, Stage Crew

Technicians Set Stage For Tourneys, Programs

Students who have shown outstanding work in drama or speech became members of the National Thespian and National Forensic League Clubs.

At Christmas the Thespians presented a variety show for the crippled children's ward and the geriatrics ward at the Lester E. Cox Medical Center. Elected officers were Rita Landreth, president; Cindy Jarvis, vice-president; Janice Davis, secretary; Cindy Martin, treasurer; Debbie Brooks, clerk; Mrs. Sandra House and Mrs. Joan Collins, sponsors.

N.F.L. members hosted a regular speech tournament in December and a neophyte tourney in the spring. During the year, the participants carried home trophies from the speech tournaments in West Plains, Neosho, Central, Parkview, and Glendale. They also saw action in the N.F.L. Speech Tournament and the district one at Southwest Missouri State College.

Gary Cox, David Turner, Wesley Routh, Fred Gates, Eddie Jackson, Jim Padgett, and Mr. Carl Locke were instrumental in the care and use of stage lighting and the sound system.

Madrigal, Choirs

Choirs Serve Many Musical Events

Outstanding choir members had the opportunity to do additional vocal work to improve their voices, by belonging to the Madrigal, which sang songs dealing with the musical heritage from the 16th century.

The sixteen members of the Madrigal participated in various music festivals and concerts, Heer's Singing Tower and Eastern Star at Christmas, and assembly programs.

The Freshman Mixed Chorus of 80 members and the Sophomore chorus of 54 voices provided performance opportunities and additional training in choral music. The two groups performed at Christmas and Thanksgiving assemblies, concerts, and some were in the musical "King and I."

Seventy-seven choral members carried out a musical schedule of many activities. They scored the musical, "King and I," a success. Their major projects were performed in massed festivals, winter and spring concerts. They supplied music for baccalaureate services.

Their choral training laid the groundwork for a career in music or for a good leisure activity.

Sing-Out, Highlifers

Groups Promote Modern Music

Eight members composed the Highlifers who performed in programs for community organizations and assemblies.

The Highlifers learned popular and show tunes available for vocal groups and performed them for the enjoyment of all. Through learning these songs an additional training for its members in vocal techniques was provided.

The purpose of Sing-Out was to promote love of God and country and to encourage patriotism. They also presented a wholesome image of teen-agers to the school and community.

The 80 members of Sing-Out performed at school assemblies and for community groups. At Christmas time they gave a party for the Springfield Children's Home. A number participated in the city-wide Sing-Out that sang for the state teachers' meeting at St. Louis.

'King and I'

Children Learn Siamese Customs

The stage in the auditorium miraculously changed into a setting in Siam as Rodgers and Hammerstein's "The King and I" was presented by the Hillcrest art, instrumental, and dramatics departments.

Dancers in colorful costumes joined with the freshmen as well as sons and daughters of faculty members to accentuate the exotic setting of the musical.

Twirlers, Marching Band

Snappy Blues Step to Spirited Music

In spite of bone-chilling weather, the silver batons flashed through the cold fingers of the four twirlers as they executed their unique routines at the football games.

Karen Woods, Richelle Byrd, Judy Messerli, and Sandy Perusse added color and entertainment to the performances of the Marching Band, Pep Band, assemblies, and civic parades.

The Marching Band dressed in navy blue and orange led by drum major Grady Affolter performed at home football and basketball games. They marched in the Veterans' Day and Christmas parades.

The cadet band of 14 members was directed by student teacher Mr. Gib Carter who instructed them in preparation for concert playing.

Instrumentalists Back City Youth Symphony

The professional musical tunes of the orchestra enlivened the musical "King and I" by Rodgers and Hammerstein. To show its versatility, the orchestra presented a spring concert with the choirs. It also presented a concert at Kansas State College, Pittsburg, Kansas.

A number of students were selected for the Springfield Youth Symphony. Joanna Ryan, in addition to being concert mistress of the Hillcrest orchestra, held the same position in the Youth Symphony.

The band and orchestra entered soloists and ensembles in the district, state music festivals, and the mass music festival.

Besides performing at the athletic events, the band presented its annual concert.

Cheerleaders

Pepsters Lead Yells In Class 'Battlecry'

Whether at a chilly football game or in the gym during basketball season, the cheering of the enthusiastic fans, led by the cheerleaders, filled the air. Always sure to raise the roof was the cheer of "Battlecry" as each class supported its part in Hillcrest.

Junior Varsity and Varsity cheerleaders attended clinics and workshops, organized bus trips, sold programs at the games, and painted signs to show the boys the school's support.

Always ready to encourage and boost the cheerleaders was the Hornet's Nest composed mainly of freshmen who attended most of the football and basketball home games.

Regalia Royalty

In the "Enchanted Forest," September 27, 1969, Queen Debbie Sweet and her royal court reigned over the dance activities.

Debbie was crowned at the Hillcrest-Parkview game won by the Hornets, 21-0. At the stadium the band, the Highlander Drum and Bugle Corps, and many committees gave honor to the royalty.

Hornets Take City Championship

Spirited Team Compiles Impressive Record

With the experience of seniors and the determination of juniors, the Hillcrest Hornets marched to a 6-3-1 season record.

The Hillcrest student body, displaying exceptional spirit and enthusiasm, backed the gridders in each game.

A Regalia win over Parkview, a victory over state-ranked Glendale, and a decisive downing of Sedalia in the centennial game, highlighted the 1969 football season.

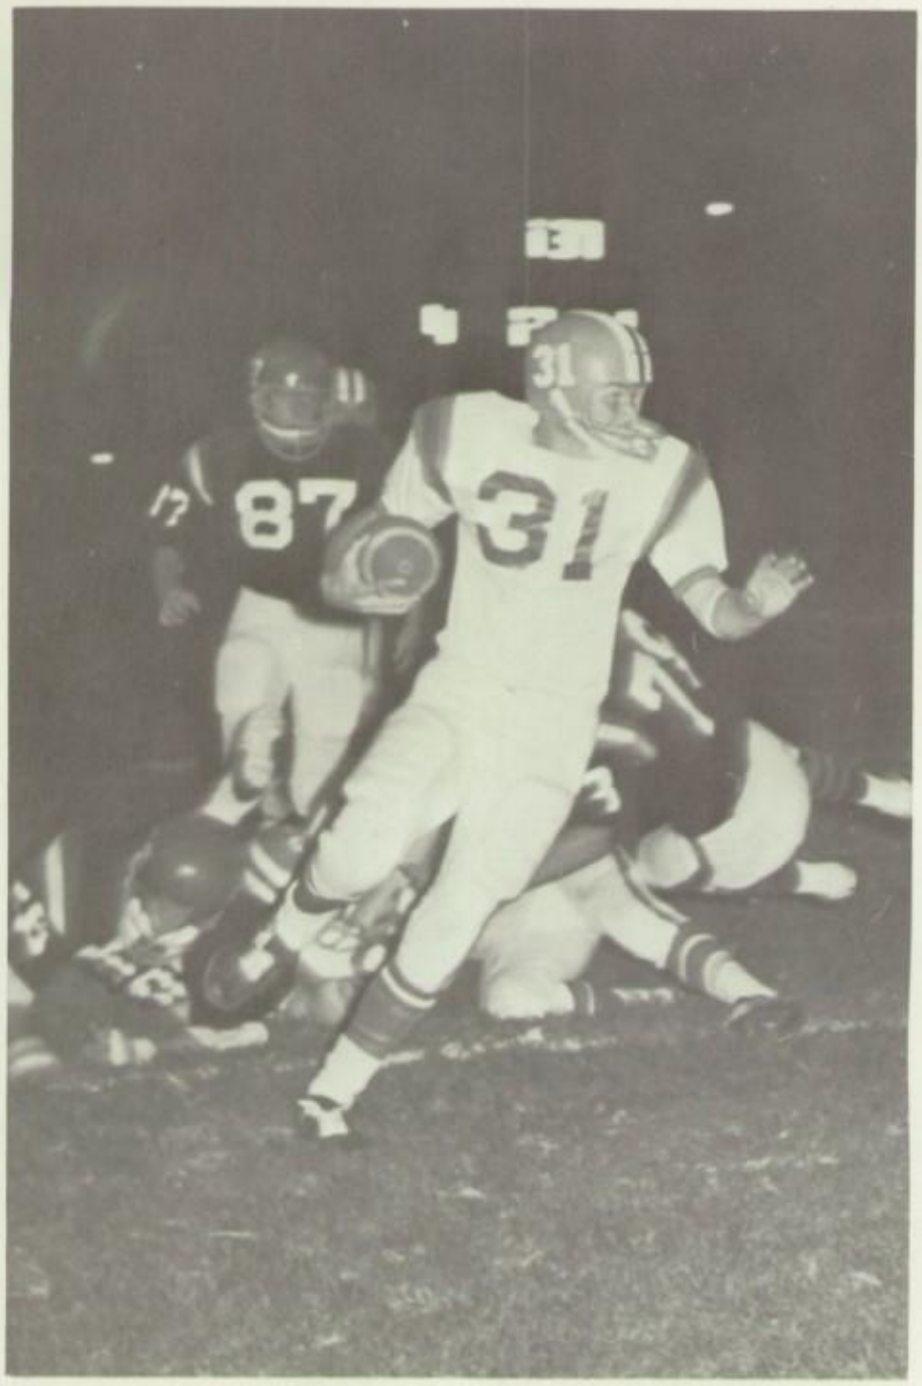
Senior Stan Bumgarner was voted all-conference end and Quarterback Club's Lineman of the Year for the Hornets. Another senior, Mike Turner, received the club's Back of the Year honor.

Junior Mike Fortner was also voted all-conference for his outstanding job as defensive middle guard.

Fullback Tony Slavens, linebacker Jim Parrott, and tackle Kurt Simmons, received all-conference honorable mention.

The Sportsmanship Award was presented to Kurt Simmons at the annual Booster Club Banquet.

Stan Bumgarner breaks away for more yardage against Jefferson City.



Mike Turner looks for daylight as he returns a punt against Central.

Roundballers Improve as Season Advances

The spirited Hornet basketballers hit the hardwoods for the first time November 28 against the Monett quintet and from that first victory to the final second of play in regional competition, they brought thrills and excitement to all Hillcrest fans.

The season included a third place finish in the Forsyth Tournament and a second place standing in the Glendale Holiday Tourney.

In Conference play the Hornets, although compiling a 3-7 record, gave the league leaders several scares during the season. Parkview, league champ, escaped with a one-point victory in one of the hottest games of the year.

Ike Letterman, Eddie Ragain, Mike Keltner, Jeff Keene, and John Brackley were the seniors who provided the action during this 1969-70 season. Junior roundballers returning to the courts next year will be sharpshooting Tony Sevy, Steve Burney, and Kenny Hardin, and several talented sophomores.

Track, Wrestling Gain Prominence

The breaking of the tape after a close race and the taut muscles of a wrestler straining to outmaneuver his mat opponent were common sights in athletic competition at Hillcrest.

The track team, coached by Jim Vaughan, consisted of over 40 members and was led by lettermen Steve Burney, Tim Davis, Jeff Keene, Mike Keltner, and Bob Adams.

The wrestling squad, although finishing with a disappointing 1-9 mark, produced the finest wrestler Hillcrest has seen in 185-pounder Kurt Simmons.

Kurt finished the season with an outstanding 24-2 record and the right to compete for the state championship at Lee's Summit. Simmons was also awarded the Sportsmanship Award at the annual sports banquet.

The team, manned by several underclassmen, promises an outstanding wrestling program in the future.

Early Workouts Promise Thrilling Season

Beginning pre-season practice in cold weather and working hard for their 1970 campaign, the Hillcrest Hornets were a hard working bunch of young men.

The season was a continuous string of thrilling games and the Hornets were causing the excitement.

With 12 returning lettermen, the hard hitting Hornets took to the field with an abundance of experience and ability.

Dubbed "Birm's Bombers," the returning lettermen were seniors Steve Miller, Jesse Versaw, John Brackley, Rodney Holden, and Stan Brunson, The juniors were Rondell Miller, Chris Peterson, Ted Peck, Wes Routh, Tom Atwell, Tony Sevy, and Edwin Ivey, and sophomore Bob Detherage.

Many Join Intramural Sports

Almost half of the student body was involved in some sport in the intramural program. Two hundred fifty-six students played basketball. Volleyball attracted 180. Bowling attracted 130 students. Jan Chambers, a sophomore, bowled a 266 score. Twenty-five went out for golf while 12 became interested in the tennis courts, and 20 went out for swimming.

The intramural schedule was directed by Mr. Frank Wann and Miss Marilyn Moore.

Along with providing an opportunity to play in intramural sports, students also had a chance to referee and officiate at the games.

Challenge Traditions With New Ideas

With eagerness, the 384 freshmen invaded the halls of Hillcrest as they brought fresh ideas and enthusiasm.

Although burdened with the task of learning the ropes of a new and bigger school and becoming accustomed to the differences, the freshmen supported many activities.

Several of their classmates entered into sports such as football, basketball, wrestling, and track.

The Freshman Mixed Chorus sang at assemblies during the year as several freshmen participated in the musical, "The King and I."

Capitalizing upon the talent and ability of the freshman class, the Future Teachers of America Club amended its Constitution to allow freshmen to join, thus encouraging them to learn about the teaching field.

Carl Dahlman, president; Jeff Green, vice-president; and Cheryl McKinney, secretary, were aided in leading the class by Mrs. Betty Dunn, counselor.

Sophomores

Work to Keep Outstanding Record

As the 358 sophomores gained the distinction of being two-year veterans of Hillcrest, they carried the position well.

The football team held its two-year undefeated record as Rick Baker led it to an almost perfect season, tying only one game with Glendale.

Sophomores regenerated its choir as they did everything they touched, as members of the class entered all facets of curricular and extracurricular activities.

The sophomores exhibited their enthusiasm as they stripped the old paint and refinished the lion in the administrative office of the Dickerson Zoo Park. The hand-carved lion was exhibited in the 1920 World Fair and was later presented to the Zoo Park.

Leading this enthusiastic class were Larry DeVries, president; Danny Stiver, vice-president; and Mary Hillman, secretary. Mr. Weston Horst, counselor, guided the class whenever his help was needed.

Juniors

Occupy Place as Leaders In Outstanding Year

As juniors joined the ranks of upperclassmen, they proved their exuberant spirit. In a contest among classes, the juniors bought more class ribbons than any other to boost the varsity football team in its victory over Glendale.

For the first time in the history of Hillcrest, a junior, Mike Fortner, held the office of student body vice-president.

The varsity football team was composed almost entirely of juniors. Tony Slavens finished second in all-city scoring. The team captured the city championship in football defeating every city team. They showed their strength in all sports.

Realizing the importance of planning a career, students had a variety of choices. College bound students attended College Day where they had a chance to meet with college representatives and were given an opportunity to take college preparatory tests.

Andy McMillen was elected president with Rondell Miller, vice-president; and Diana Bernet, secretary. Always there to guide was Mrs. Lois Kirkman, counselor.

Display Versatility In Many Activities

Amid the taking of Scholastic Aptitude Tests, Ohio Psychological, and college entrance exams, the time seemed to fly for the 358 seniors.

Joyce Reynolds and Jim Everest were representatives of the senior class as they placed in the semi-finals of the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying test.

In the musical "The King and I," Pat Rader and Grady Affolter held the roles of leading characters.

Debbie Sweet reigned over the Regalia game and dance with Sara Steinburg and Pat Rader as her senior attendants.

Curt Lemmon served the student body as its capable president.

The seniors danced to the strains of music by the Irving at their prom as the memories of a great year came rushing back.

The officers for this year were Brad Harris, president, Jim Everest, vice-president; and Eddie Ragain, secretary. Mr. Newton Edwards, counselor, assisted them in many curricular activities the seniors accomplished.

Acknowledgment

You have met the people of Hillcrest. Special recognition goes to those who worked most closely with us. Our sincere appreciation is extended to the following:

To Mr. William Gist, principal, and Mr. Neal Grubaugh, assistant principal, for the help and encouragement they gave us.

To Jim Tranbarger, staff photographer, for the time and effort he spent during and after school to take pictures for the Highlighter.

To Merle Comstock of Comstock and Sons Photo Studio for the pictures he took for us.

To the custodians for their patience and cooperation in setting up risers for pictures.

To the Journalism I classes, and especially to Betty Jones Journalism I student, who painstakingly prepared most of th index for typing.

To Mrs. Virginia Woodring, city-wide coordinator, for he help and her faith in us.

To Miss Margaret Backlund, adviser, who worked with u advised us, and gave us moral support when a deadline wa near.

And to the students and teachers who cheerfully allowe their classes to be interrupted for pictures and informatio for they made this '70 Highlighter what it is.

On behalf of the entire staff, we say, "Thank You!"

Wanda Smelling Andy McMillen
